

Possible Solutions to stop Conversions

As Hindus we need to study Christianity and Islam and others and know what their pitch is and debunk their myths. Pandits and lay preachers must understand Christianity, Islam and others at a deeper level so that there can be informed responses to their pitches.

Learn from Christianity as they use Social conscience - care and well executed plans to respond to sickness, poor marital relationships, poverty - this becomes an "in" to conversion as people are at their most vulnerable point in life

Hinduism preaches simplicity - Christianity focuses on sophistication and social finesse to draw a noticeable distinction. Once they can show you that you are “socially backward” then every other thing about you is positioned as backward including your religion

All Hindu Organizations must unite and stop thinking of only their own group and pledge to defend each other equally.

All Hindu Organizations including HMEC must find funding to study the conversion methods, tactics and strategies that are employed by other groups as a starting point so that we can properly arrive at well thought out strategies to decrease conversion and most importantly re convert those who converted

Look at our strategies for example Bhakti is an important concept in Hinduism but the love and submissiveness can be dangerous if not correctly channeled . We must show that Bhakti also means strength, stability and commitment and not an opioid that gives a momentary spiritual high. It must be informed by knowledge and followed by sensible and reasoned actions.
