

Parth Parihar is the current General Secretary of Hindu Students Council. Previously, he served as president of Princeton Hindu Satsangam, where he now has an advisory role. Having recently graduated from Princeton University with a Bachelor's in Mathematics, he is now pursuing his Ph.D. in Economics with a focus on microeconomic theory. Parihar is an avid blogger on The Huffington Post on issues related to Hinduism, global politics, and the environment. In his spare time, he enjoys painting, reading fiction and non-fiction books on economics, history, and religion, and cooking.